REIEK, during monsoon MIZORAM

I love the Monsoon season. The lush green plants all around, the mountains covered with clouds and the sound of the raindrops, it is all so wonderful. The cats and mice are in a frenzy but the earthworms roam about freely. Last year during the Monsoon, I went to Reiek in Mizoram on a road trip with my family. It is the hill state that receives the maximum rainfall in our country. I was sleeping on our way and got up when the car stopped. Lo and behold! We were near a huge waterfall and every drop of water glistened in the sunshine, making me feel as if I was in a wonderland. We crossed another water fall. The sound of the water falling heavily on our car and the green hills are etched in my memory. My father will soon be posted out of Mizoram but I have made a promise to myself that I will go back to Mizoram with my parents when I am grown up and make more memories of this beautiful place.

IN THIS WORLD OF TECHNOLOGY, ARE THE NEWSPAPERS STILL RELEVANT ?

Newspapers have perhaps been the oldest form of mass media. For many people newspapers are not just a source of information but a way to start their day. In many households newspapers complement the morning tea. With digitalization making inroads into all spheres of our lives, some people may doubt the existence of the good old newspapers, However, I am certain that they are here to stay! The thud of the newspaper dropping at your doorstep, the pleasure of opening the multiple layers and the smell of the newspaper mixed with morning dew can not be replaced.

There is still a sizable number of people who prefer newspapers over reading news on their devices. I would consider newspapers to be the most authentic sources of information primarily because the journalists who work for the newspapers are not under the pressure of giving a “breaking news”. On the other hand the new media channels are in a race to increase their viewership and resort to sensationalizing news and even spreading misinformation.

In my opinion, newspapers are a reliable source of information and truly “the mirror of our society”.

Monsoon delight

Here comes the monsoon,
Filled with happiness and boon!
Oh the lush green surrounding
That makes the ambience spell-bounding!
Sky adorned with grey clouds
That bear rain
As if from the earth
Washing away all the pain
The glistening raindrops on the leaves
Magic in the dawn
The bumble bees and dragonflies
What a trip they are on

The birds frolicking
Bring smile on my face
Butterflies over colorful flowers
Flying with God's grace
Colorful feathers
The peacock spread
As they dance in ecstasy
Near the flower bed
The canopy of cotton clouds
Take a flight
The glorious rainbow across the sky
Spreading God's light
Oh! how much I love the petrichor
Thank you rain for all this and much more.

OUT OF THE WOODS

Running around in circles
Leading myself to woods,
I discover the immensity of silence,
The silent voices of the woods
Throws me in an awe
Listening to them
I diverge from my path
The rain has stopped
But I smell melancholy
Feeling lost, running around in circles,
Plodding and sweating and finally I could,
I lead myself out of the wood.

CHAPTER 1: THE AWAKENING

In a realm veiled by mist and light,
Lived a girl with powers, shining bright.
Enchantia, her name, a whispered song,
Her destiny awaited, secrets to prolong.

Within her heart, magic flowed,
A tapestry of wonders yet untold.
Her eyes sparkled with ethereal hues,
Guided by a mystical path she would choose.

Beneath the moon's soft, bewitching gaze,
Enchantia awakened from a dreamy haze.
Her touch summoned petals from the air,
And whispered incantations, beyond compare.

The ancient forest whispered her name,
Its lush embrace is forever the same.
With each step she took, nature would sway,
Revealing the wonders of a magical display.

Monsoon

When the rains from above hit the ground,
They spread an earthy smell all around.

This season is pleasant for all
Even for the earthworms that come out to crawl.

Children make paper boats
And wear colorful raincoats

When grey clouds cover the sky

It is the breeding time for dragonflies

When mighty rain and ferocious thunder meet

The people down below riddance the heat

When the rain leaves by, it leaves its mark,

Across the sky, a colorful arc

What a wonderful site of joy and bliss,

A pleasure to the eye, no one can miss.

GLOBAL ROUND
World Scholar's Cup

Grade 11th

A team of 10 students escorted by Ms. Ritu Sharma participated in the WSC Doha Global Round 2023. It was an incredible journey to learn and explore. We shared the platform with students hailing from different countries and cultures. One of the defining aspects of the global round was the emphasis on teamwork and collaboration. These interactions transcended geographical boundaries, creating long lasting bonds beyond the competition.

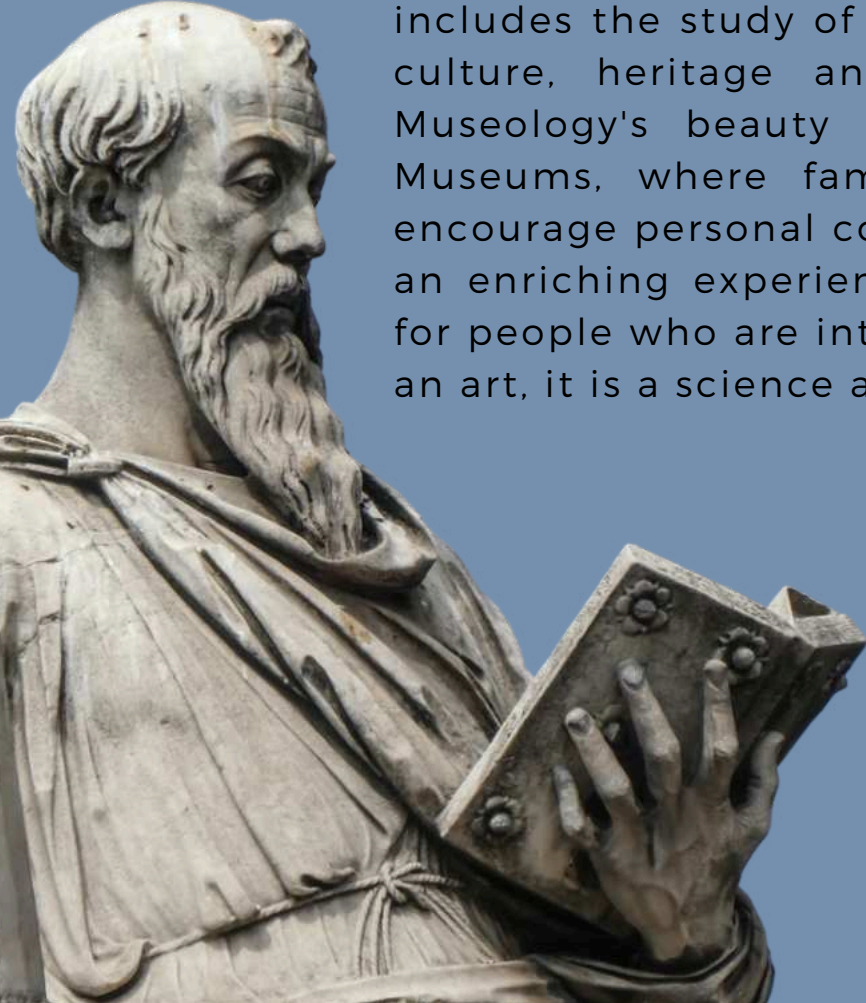

Our team bagged gold and silver medals in various categories. We are extremely proud and delighted to have qualified for the final round, The Tournament of Championship, at Yale University, the USA.

Vantage Hall Scholars team returned after a resounding success in the WSC Global Rounds from Doha. On 19 July our team, along with our teacher in-charge Ms. Ritu Sharma had the good fortune to receive felicitations from the Honorable Chief Minister Shri Pushkar Singh Dhami. We thank the Chief Minister for taking out time to encourage and appreciate our achievements.

Museology

Museology, also known as museum studies, is a multidisciplinary field that includes the study of museums and their role in society. Museums preserve our culture, heritage and history in an interesting and captivating manner. Museology's beauty is enhanced by sparked creativity, particularly in Art Museums, where famous artists' masterpieces are displayed. These spaces encourage personal connection, reflection, and intellectual stimulation, creating an enriching experience. Museology as a profession offers many opportunities for people who are interested in art, history, culture, education and therapy. It is an art, it is a science and it is an understanding of history and culture.

For those who are committed to preserving cultural heritage and sharing knowledge with the public, museology as a career can be very rewarding. It has the opportunity to interact with many audiences, contribute to research and science, and have a lasting impact on people's understanding of history, art, science and culture. Museum professionals are usually required to have a bachelor's degree in museum studies or other fields such as archaeology, art history or history. Some jobs require candidates to hold a master's degree in museum research.

WHAT AM I?

1. I have a heart that doesn't beat. I can fly but have no wings. I can cry but I have no eyes. Wherever I go, darkness follows me.
2. I am alive without breath, and cold as death. I am never thirsty but always drinking.
3. What can travel around the world while staying in a corner?
4. The more you take, the more you leave behind.
